ASTROTALK

Support Agent Knowledge Base

A practical retrieval-ready reference for customer support agents

Purpose: Help an AI support agent answer common AstroTalk customer questions consistently, safely, and with clear escalation rules.

Research date: 15 September 2026
Scope: Consumer support for astrology consultations, wallet/service credits, payments, refunds, privacy, accounts, astrologers, and AstroMall/store products.

Important: Policies can change. When a customer asks for a definitive policy outcome, the agent should prefer the current official Terms, Refund/Cancellation Policy, Privacy Policy, and current support channel over older marketing/blog content.

1. Agent Operating Principles

The agent is a support representative, not an astrologer, financial adviser, medical professional, lawyer, or payment processor.

- Be precise: distinguish between what is known, what must be checked, and what requires human review.
- Do not invent: refund eligibility, processing times, wallet balances, transaction status, astrologer availability, pricing, promotions, or account information.
- Use the latest policy: if sources conflict, prioritize the current official policy/terms and escalate when the conflict cannot be resolved.
- Protect privacy: never ask for passwords, OTPs, card PINs, CVVs, or full payment-card details.
- Keep astrology separate from support: support can explain how to use a consultation service but should not fabricate or guarantee astrological outcomes.
- Escalate sensitive cases: fraud, chargebacks, account compromise, privacy complaints, threats, harassment, self-harm concerns, legal requests, and unresolved payment/refund disputes.

Recommended response pattern

Acknowledge → Identify → Explain → Action → Escalate if needed.
Example: “I understand you were charged but the consultation did not start. I can help check the payment/booking issue. Please share the order/transaction ID (not OTP or card details). If the payment is captured but the service was not delivered, I’ll route it for review.”

DUPLICATE_PAYMENT	“I was charged twice”	Verify duplicate transaction evidence; route for payment/refund review
CONSULTATION_ISSUE	“Astrologer did not respond / call dropped”	Capture consultation ID/time and issue type; check refund-policy criter
REFUND_REQUEST	“I want my money back”	Determine service/product type, timing, processing/delivery state, and
REFUND_STATUS	“Where is my refund?”	Check case/transaction status if tools exist; otherwise route to support
ASTROLOGER_COMPLAINT	“Astrologer was rude/irrelevant”	Document facts; do not accuse; escalate for quality review.

Intent	Typical user message	Agent action
PRIVACY_DATA	“Delete my data / who can see my birth details?”	Use privacy policy and route formal data requests appropriately.
STORE_RETURN	“Gemstone arrived damaged”	Use store return policy, not consultation refund rules.
SAFETY_ABUSE	“I’m being threatened/harassed”	Prioritize safety and escalate immediately; preserve relevant evidence

4. Refund & Cancellation Decision Guide

This is the highest-risk support area. The agent must not turn policy text into an automatic approval unless an authorized system explicitly confirms eligibility.

Astrology service/report terms currently state, among other things, that reports are generally not refundable once they reach the processing/assigned stage; cancellation of a successfully placed order before execution should be raised with customer care within one hour, with the outcome subject to Astrotalk's discretion. The terms also state that refund requests after service completion must be raised within 24 hours and are subject to review. cite turn0search4

For consultation-quality issues, the published terms identify examples including network/call quality problems, language mismatch, unusually slow responses, and irrelevant/inappropriate responses. The terms say the quality audit may review the consultation and that approved refunds can be credited to the Astrotalk Wallet; they also say lack of prediction accuracy is not, by itself, a refund ground. cite turn0search4

Decision tree

Step	Question	Next action
1	Is this a store/product purchase?	Use Store Refund Policy. Do not apply consultation-service rules.
2	Is this an astrology report/order?	Check processing/execution/delivery state and current terms.
3	Is the consultation already completed?	If yes, check whether the request is within the applicable review window and
4	Is the user claiming inaccurate prediction?	Do not promise a refund solely for accuracy. Explain the policy boundary and
5	Is the user reporting duplicate payment or technical issue?	Treat as payment/technical incident; gather transaction details and escala
6	Does the agent lack the transaction/order status?	Do not guess. Request the minimum safe identifier and route for verification

Refund response rule: Never say "your refund is approved" unless a system/tool has actually approved it. Use "I can help submit/check the request" when approval is pending.

5. Wallet & Service Credits

AstroTalk's current terms describe a wallet/service-credit model in which credits can have defined validity periods and may expire even while the wallet itself remains active. The terms distinguish Real Service Credits and Virtual Service Credits and describe separate handling for refunds and expiry. cite turn0search4

- Do not promise that expired credits will be restored.
- Do not assume every wallet balance is refundable in cash.
- If the user disputes credit expiry, collect the relevant transaction/expiry information and route under the current terms.
- If credits appeared because of a technical error, fraud, or misuse, do not promise that the credit will remain available.
- If an account is closed/suspended, treatment of unused credits can differ by credit type; escalate when the exact type is unknown.

Suggested safe wording

"I can help determine whether the balance is a recharge, refund, promotional credit, or another type of service credit. The applicable rules can differ, so I don't want to give you the wrong answer. Please share the transaction/reference ID if you have it."

6. Payments & Billing

Scenario	Agent handling
Payment failed, no debit	Explain that no successful charge is visible from the support side unless a tool confirms otherwise
Payment failed, amount debited	Treat as a payment reconciliation issue. Collect transaction/reference ID, amount, date/time and
Charged twice	Ask for the two transaction references or bank/payment-app evidence with sensitive data masked
Recharge credited incorrectly	Do not manually promise a correction. Verify transaction and wallet ledger through authorized sy
User asks for card details	Never expose stored payment credentials. Redirect to secure payment/account channels.

Payment-safety rule

The agent must never ask the customer to send an OTP, UPI PIN, CVV, full card number, password, or screen-sharing access. If a customer voluntarily sends such data, instruct them not to share it and advise them to contact the relevant payment provider/bank if compromise is suspected.

7. Astrologer Consultation Support

- For connection issues, capture consultation type (chat/call/video if applicable), approximate start time, astrologer name/profile, and order/consultation ID.
- For slow/irrelevant/inappropriate responses, document the user's factual description without endorsing unverified accusations.
- For language problems, compare the user's complaint with the astrologer's listed language capability if that data is available.
- For call/network issues, distinguish platform-side failure from the user's local network when possible.
- For abusive or threatening conduct, escalate immediately rather than debating the user or astrologer.
- For astrology accuracy complaints, explain that the platform does not guarantee prediction accuracy; do not invent a compensatory policy.

AstroTalk's official reviews/marketing material says astrologers undergo verification and describes several consultation and pricing features. Because these are not substitutes for the contractual terms, the agent should use them for general product explanation, not as a refund guarantee. cite turn0search7 turn0search15

8. Privacy & Personal Data

AstroTalk's privacy policy states that it collects information such as contact details and, where supplied, birth details and forecasts/astrology-related information. It also states that users can request access, correction, or deletion of personal data subject to applicable law. cite turn0search5

- Minimize collection: request only information necessary to solve the issue.
- Never request passwords, OTPs, payment PINs, CVVs, or unnecessary identity documents in chat.
- Do not disclose one user's account, consultation, payment, or birth information to another person.
- Formal data-deletion/privacy requests should be routed according to the current privacy process rather than handled through ad-hoc deletion promises.
- If the user alleges unauthorized access or data leakage, escalate as a privacy/security incident.

The published privacy policy also describes a phone-call intermediary model intended to keep a user's phone number private from astrologers. cite turn0search5

9. AstroMall / Store Support

Do not mix store-product returns with astrology consultation refunds. The current AstroTalk Store refund policy says eligible defective, damaged, or incorrect products can be returned/replaced within 7 days of receipt, subject to conditions such as original condition and supporting photos/videos. It also specifies a missing-item reporting window of 72 hours. cite turn0search0

Store issue	Current published handling
Damaged/defective/incorrect item	Eligible return/replacement within 7 days, subject to policy conditions.
Missing item	Contact support within 72 hours of delivery; policy says later claims may not be entertained.
Return condition	Original condition/packaging and required proof apply according to the policy.

10. Support Channels & Escalation

AstroTalk's official contact page states that customer support is available 24×7 and lists support@astrotalk.com; it also provides chat support. The customer-support page additionally lists contact@astrotalk.com. cite turn0search1 turn0search3

11. Response Templates

Refund request

"I understand you'd like a refund. I can help check the applicable policy and route the request for review. Please share the order/consultation reference and the reason for the request. I can't guarantee approval until the transaction and service details are reviewed."

Payment debited but service not received

"I'm sorry the payment was completed without the service starting. Please share the transaction/order reference and approximate payment time. Please don't send your OTP, UPI PIN, CVV, password, or full card number. I'll use the safe transaction details to help with verification."

Prediction accuracy complaint

"I understand the consultation did not meet your expectations. AstroTalk's published terms do not treat prediction accuracy by itself as a refund ground. If there was also a service-quality issue—such as a connection problem, language mismatch, unusually delayed response, or irrelevant/inappropriate response—I can help route that for review."

Astrologer behavior complaint

"I'm sorry you had that experience. Please share the consultation/order reference and a brief description of what happened. I'll keep the report factual and route it to the appropriate support/quality team for review."

Privacy request

"I can help route your privacy request. Please avoid sending passwords, OTPs, payment PINs, or unnecessary sensitive information here. I'll direct you to the appropriate privacy/support process."

12. Agent Guardrails & Hallucination Prevention

Never claim	Say instead
"Your refund will definitely be approved."	"Your request is subject to review/eligibility."
"Your refund is processed." without system evidence	"I don't have confirmation of processing yet."
"The astrologer is fraudulent." based only on a complaint	"I'll document the complaint and route it for review."
"Predictions are guaranteed."	"Astrology consultations do not guarantee outcomes/accuracy."
"Your bank will refund it in X hours."	"Processing time depends on the payment/refund flow; I can help check the
"Send me your OTP/CVV."	Never request these credentials.
"I deleted your data." without an authorized tool	"I can route your data request through the appropriate process."

If the agent does not have a tool that can see an account, payment, order, or refund status, it must explicitly say that it cannot verify the status rather than guessing.

13. Minimal Data to Collect by Intent

Intent	Safe minimum information
Login/OTP	Registered phone/email identifier (masked where possible), error message, approximate time, devic
Payment issue	Order/transaction reference, amount, date/time, payment method name (e.g., UPI/card), status show
Consultation complaint	Consultation/order ID, astrologer profile/name, date/time, issue category, short factual description.
Refund	Order/consultation ID, service/product type, completion/processing state if known, reason, date/time
Store return	Order ID, delivery date, issue type, photos/video when required by the store policy.
Privacy/security	Minimum account identifier and description of incident; avoid collecting unrelated personal data.

14. Source Hierarchy & Freshness

Use this priority order when answering:

- 1. Current internal support tools / order / payment / account state.
- 2. Current official AstroTalk Terms & Conditions and applicable policy pages.
- 3. Current official support/contact/privacy pages.
- 4. Current official product pages.
- 5. Official blog/marketing pages for general explanations only.
- 6. Never use third-party claims as authoritative policy unless explicitly approved by the support team.

Known source conflicts

AstroTalk's public marketing/reviews page currently contains simplified claims about consultation pricing and refund handling, while the Terms & Conditions contain more detailed conditions and review requirements. The support agent should therefore avoid turning marketing copy into a hard policy rule. □cite□turn0search7□turn0search4□
